TALL SHIPS
High Definition Television and Blu-ray Series

A spectacular 13-episode high definition series about America's greatest sailing ships is now in the works. Each hour of this program – titled "Tall Ships" – takes television and home entertainment audiences into an exciting seafaring world of days-gone-by, while connecting directly with today's youth and their growing consciousness about the environment and the perils facing our planet.

The first episode of "Tall Ships" – currently in postproduction – features the magnificent Privateer Lynx and her young crew. They sail this authentic interpretation of an 1812 war ship up the coast of California and share an adventure that few people ever get to experience.

With her beautiful white sails billowing against the blue sky, the powerful 122-foot Lynx cuts a mighty bow wave through the sea. She is something to see! And we witness the dedication, courage and teamwork it takes to work this kind of ship. This is man vs. nature – and man in harmony with nature – all at their best.

The history of the Lynx – built by a young America facing War with England – is fascinating. And each of the 12 other tall ships featured in the series has its own story. They all serve to preserve and further the art and culture of sailing on a grand scale. And the sustainable technology of these amazing vessels offers relevant lessons and inspiration for us all.

The heartwarming and thrilling human stories in this series reflect the project's commitment to youth and the fight against global warming. The young sailors you meet have learned a way of life and survival that gives them some fascinating insights into mankind's role on the planet.

Our "Tall Ships" are incredibly photogenic. The series is an eye-popping feast for HD enthusiasts. The visuals are stunning, the journey is fascinating and the topic is important.
